

F&D's home theatre treat this festive season
- the F6000U 5.1 system

It's that time of the year when festival upon festival calls upon music, dance and celebration. And besides near and dear ones, some preferred gadgets too make the occasions special. F&D, one of India's leaders in the manufacture of multimedia speakers announces an extension to its line with the F6000U, a 5.1 multimedia speaker which is packed with a home theatre surround sound for momentous performances.

This system, i.e. the five satellite speakers and their base are packed with enhanced convenience and easy operation. The user-friendly remote control and catalogue will mean that the gizmo will become a part of your drawing room or bedroom in no time!

At the core of this product is a thumping Bass effect with 6500 watts PMPO power output. With the speakers helping in 360-degree dispersion of sound waves for Hi-Fi surround sound, the subwoofer within its 8-inch powerful bass driver too will enhance the experience. And by the way, we're talking about a massive 6,500W output here!

The F6000 U is designed so to understand its user and blend in with his moods and behaviours: from a bright LED display to easy connectivity to PCs, MP3 players, TVs and DVD players, its USB device and SD card slot are a boon for any music lover. That said, its digital FM player, by using advanced PLL technology only gives superior reception. The system's 'heavy duty' look of a metal grill is backed by style, with a high glossy surface.

Perhaps the best part, and one which would totally help rocketing budgets this festive season, is the speakers' price. At only Rs 10,990, they meet all the needs of entertainment lovers who add a new dimension to their festival this year. Commenting on the launch of the latest F6000U, Mr Rajesh Bansal, Director F&D said: "This Diwali, our 5.1 multimedia speakers will not only promise, but deliver an amazing sound experience. They're a proud new addition to our product range."

With Navratri at the doorstep and Diwali to follow, these stylish and performance-oriented speakers will leave no corner of your home and heart untouched by your favourite sound.
