

F&D's new F680 - a new audio experience

We often take our home entertainment experience for granted and overlook the role of sound in it. Fenda India's brand F&D, which has long been gratifying the need and luxury of Indians wanting a superior sound experience has launched its latest entrant in the multimedia speaker category is the F680, a 2.1 system.

The massive 5500W PMPO speakers not only promise crisp, powerful sound but also deliver it. Built in Digital Amplifier( Class-D) gives this system necessary power to deliver high performance sound. At first glance, its heavy duty metal grill design for satellite and subwoofer is not easy to ignore while closer looks and a feel indicate a wooden cabinet that will give nothing but strong sound with lowest distortion. Also, its 11 degree tilted satellite design will ensure maximum dispersion of its amazing sound.

Appreciators of quality sound will realise that the F680's class D amplifier and a base control function on the back of its subwoofer are handy advantages to have in a 2.1 system. Those expecting durability and safety too will be impressed with this product's built-in automatic voltage regulator and efficient energy functions.

The F680 2.1 speakers are not designed with a specific user group, rather they will be appreciated and utilised well by not only professionals for their laptops and PCs but also entertainment loving youngsters who'd like their DVD ,MP3 and gaming experience to be top-notch.

Bearing the company's trademark qualities of performance and style, the F680 are made to add elegance to any device they're connected to.
