

F&D Discovery H30 : Professional stereo headphones for the Gen Next

Fenda Audio has been presenting its customers with the best that technology can offer for past 8 years. And surging ahead on the path of growth and innovation, the firm has now reached a new high with an entry into the headphone segment. Its first introduction, the F&D Discovery H30 stands for clarity, strength and flexibility.

The first thing that strikes you about these peerless black headphones is its styling. Entailing a semi-open back architecture for profound, solid bass reproduction, these professional stereo headphones have it in them to be part of your gadgets must-haves kit.

The core competence of this exceptional product is its sound - and it's no less than crystal clear. The enchanting experience between your ears is possible thanks to its fine woven fabric that controls sound leakage. Making sure the rhythms are pure and unadulterated, its patented acoustic chamber design offers fine listening experience.

As for all connoisseur of sound, F&D has carefully crafted the outer headband with genuine leather and an adjustable inner headband with soft finishing, ensuring durability and comfort for the users. The double-layered ear-shells reduce vibration and lend impeccable sound detailing to the listener. Importantly, the fine cable used for the headphones provide excellent strength and flexibility.

Commenting on this first move into the headphone segment, Director of FAIPL Mr Rajesh Bansal said, "F&D today stands for exceptional sound quality and based on high consumer demand we have integrated similar quality in our headphones too. Headphones are today an integral part of every professional's life and we've loaded our debut product with many striking features."

Priced at Rs 2,490/-, F&D Discovery H30 is the perfect amalgamation of quality sound experience, comfort and style.
