

Towering over others in excellence - F&D's new A570U 2.1 speaker

The emergence of F&D as a reliable player in the speakers segment has been remarkable, and its latest offering only strengthens the position it has attained among customers and the market. The A570U speakers, a 2.1 system of powerful sound, is the shelf's finest offering in the category, and is packed with delectable features.

Perhaps the most striking feature of this black beauty is the design - the two satellite speakers towering with sleek elegance over the 30W subwoofer is an aesthetic win which also blends well with the interiors. Moreover, place this 6500 W PMPO gadget around your flat screen TV and ensure a mind-blasting experience.

The innards of this audio phenomenon are all about thumping base and clear sound. Their wooden cabinet reduces distortion while the bass/treble/echo/mic knobs give their user a tailor made and convenient time. For loud music lovers 3-inch and 6.5-inch full and bass drivers in the satellite and sub-woofers respectively will do the needful with ease.

The A570U flaunts slim design, a heavy duty attitude with metal grills and high glossy front panels, scoring high in the looks department. And the best utility to add to this - the speakers have a plug-and-play USB/SD card reader, supporting multiple formats. Playing your favourite track loud on TV/DVD/PC is no longer a fussy activity.

Priced at Rs 8,890 the A570U is undoubtedly the most attractive buy in its category.

Mr. Rajesh Bansal Director of the company said, "These 2.1 speakers are made for those who like flaunting their listening habits in their homes. We've tried to make them so as they 'gel' along with personalities of their users!"
